

ESSENTIAL PROVISIONS OF FRENCH SERVICE BILL

Measure Says First Duty of Citizen Is to Insure His Country's Defense.

Special Telegram to The Star and Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1920.

PARIS, France, February 7.—The four essential provisions of the new military service bill, which has been laid before the chamber and will undoubtedly be voted, are as follows:

1. The first duty of the French citizen is to insure his country's defense. Military preparation and service are obligatory for all. Except for physical incapacity, there is no dispensation from military service.
2. Length of service, twenty years. Service is required from all Frenchmen between twenty and forty-five years of age.
3. The active army is recruited by the call of annual contingents, by voluntary enlistments and by re-enlistments.
4. All men accepted as fit for military service, except in the case of enlistment or re-enlistment, form part of the active army during one year, of the first reserve during two years and of the second reserve during fifteen years. The annual class is divided into three groups: equal in number. These will be incorporated successively at three-month intervals.

In other words, the bill considers one year's active training as sufficient for France's needs henceforth.

Comes Here From Los Angeles. Lieut. Col. David Reeves, Signal Corps, Los Angeles, Calif., has been ordered to this city for duty.

DUTCHMAN CLAIMS THRONE OF FRANCE

Naundorff, Wine Merchant, Says He Is Grandson of Louis XVII.

BY WILLIAM E. NASH.

Special Telegram to The Star and Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1920.

PARIS, France, February 7.—M. Naundorff, a wine merchant of Dutch nationality, claims that he is really Prince of Bourbon and grandson of Louis XVII, son of Marie Antoinette.

Naundorff is supposed to have died in the guillotine, in the time of the French revolution. Naundorff claims that documents exist in the French archives proving him to be the rightful heir to the "French throne."

Legend has it that the ill-fated dauphin of 1793, who Naundorff claims was his grandfather, escaped from captivity in a basket of soiled clothes, was educated by certain royalists, and that he was later found hidden in a basket of clothes, and Naundorff, settled in Holland. The Dutch nationality of his descendants.

Has Bureau in Paris. M. Naundorff has established a bureau in Paris, where he keeps office every Wednesday, ready to prove to all comers his pretensions to royal rank. He receives mail addressed to "His Royal Highness, the Prince of Bourbon." By the authorities, however, he is not recognized as a prince.

A stirring appeal has just been issued by this self-styled son of royalty, urging all Frenchmen to recognize his claims in the name of "liberty, equality and fraternity."

In this appeal he says: "Frenchmen and Frenchwomen! You are expiating today by the lamentable situation in which you stand among the great nations the greatest crime ever known to history—that is, the crime of June 8, 1793, which disposed of his home and cast into private life your legitimate king, Louis XVII. For more than fifty years, until August 10, 1845, the royal orphan, clothed with a name de plume, Naundorff, wandered over Europe asking for justice in vain. His enemies persisted in vilifying him as a madman. In disposing him of his crown and his name France despoiled herself. She assassinated the principle of legitimacy and wanted to proclaim the right of conquest for centuries in the capacity of the greatest and strongest state in Europe."

Asks "Truth Be Proclaimed." "Frenchmen and Frenchwomen! The future of the sovereign people is in your hands. Order your representatives to proclaim the truth, order them to publish the documents proving the identity of Louis XVII and the unfortunate Naundorff. Though a poor miserable wanderer he often made his oppressors tremble, and no one ever succeeded in giving him the lie."

The appeal is signed "Charles Jean Philippe, Prince de Bourbon, grandson of Louis XVII, King of France and Navarre, 35 Rue Lamartine, Paris."

"PENNY AND UPWARD" AS. S. GIFT TO FRANCE

MacMonnies Statue to Be Placed in Town of Meaux on Marne.

NEW YORK, February 7.—"One cent and upward" for "America's gift to France"—the MacMonnies statue to commemorate the battle of the Marne, is the way Myron T. Herrick, chairman of the executive committee, characterizes the kinds of subscriptions to be offered by the American people. The sum of $250,000 is needed for the monument, which will be placed in the town of Meaux, on the Marne, the high-water mark of the German advance in 1914.

It is not a campaign to drive that large part of the money, it is hoped, will be raised by the children of America. Their contributions will correspond to the money given by the school children of France who largely supported Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty, the gift of the American people to France.

Legend has it that the ill-fated dauphin of 1793, who Naundorff claims was his grandfather, escaped from captivity in a basket of soiled clothes, was educated by certain royalists, and that he was later found hidden in a basket of clothes, and Naundorff, settled in Holland. The Dutch nationality of his descendants.

Thousands of Frenchmen gave for the Statue of Liberty. Thousands of Americans should give for the MacMonnies statue. America's gift to France is the payment of only a small part of the great debt that the world owes to the French people for the triumph of civilization at the Marne, September 6, 1914.

Frederick MacMonnies, the distinguished American sculptor, is the artist who designed the statue. It will be colossal in size and of a group nature, but the final design has not been determined.

DR. IDA KAHN HERE ON VISIT. Woman Physician Practicing in China Addresses Local Audiences.

Dr. Ida Kahn, probably the best known among the half hundred woman physicians who practice in China, arrived in Washington this morning on a visit made under the auspices of the local Y. W. C. A. and will be busy today by addressing various groups and classes of the "Y" membership this evening at headquarters, 1333 F street.

During her stay in Washington Dr. Kahn is the guest of Mrs. John P. Scull, a member of the board of directors of the association. At noon today she attended the luncheon held at the Hotel Washington under the auspices of the interchurch movement, and this afternoon is being entertained at the clubhouse of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae on H street, by Mrs. Philip North Moore, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

The recent tour of the Prince of Wales in Canada and the United States was officially filmed, 15,000 feet being required for the Canadian visit alone. In the days of ancient Rome a person was required to enter a house with the right foot foremost, because the left was thought unlucky. A boy was kept at the door to see that no one entered the house left foot first.

JUGOSLAVIA SOON TO ACCEPT TERMS

Nitti Discusses Foreign Policy Before Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, February 7 (Havas).—Jugoslavia will soon accept the proposed compromise for a settlement of questions arising out of the disposition of territories along the eastern shore of the Adriatic sea, according to a Belgrade dispatch to the Echo de Paris.

Nitti Discusses Policy. Rome, Saturday, February 7 (by the Associated Press).—Premier Nitti discussed the Italian foreign policy in the chamber of deputies today. He began his speech by asking for a suspension of the work of the chamber for a few days, as he had to be in London on Thursday at a meeting of the allied premiers. The sitting adjourned to February 29.

"In the critical hour of our history," said the premier, "it is indispensable to tell the entire truth, even if we have to do so with an aching heart. Foreign policy has an influence on home policy, and home policy on foreign policy; so the two must harmonize."

Signor Nitti deplored the attacks on foreign countries and foreign rulers, especially America, saying: "I deplore the attitude of the Italian press in sowing the seeds of poison despite the censorship. This is so stupid."

continued. "Yesterday Signor di Cesare read a secret document, again proving that there is a conspiracy, making a revolution, revolutionary acts. I am glad that this document was brought to the chamber work on the statute. I will be colossal in size and of a group nature, but the final design has not been determined."
